

FOUR NATIONS readathon

AANG'S JOURNEY

WELCOME TO AANG'S JOURNEY!

Hello and welcome (back)!

The Four Nations readathon takes place in July and January, but that doesn't mean we can't have some fun in the other months! From August to December we're following Aang's journey through the four Nations, starting at the Southern Water Tribe! The sprint for each place Aang visited takes place in one week, all starting at the third monday of the month.

There are three different levels you can do within the sprint:

Basic	1 book
Experienced	2 books
Advanced	3 books

In the following pages you can find the prompts for the three different levels. If you do Basic, you only visit the most prominent places Aang visited, but with Advanced you get to travel the world!

So what does this have to do with the Four Nations readathon that takes place in July and January? Well, you can get rewards for finishing the sprints! If you go for Basic, you can use the books you read as a replacement for any prompt within the levels (so no groups/skills), as long as the prompt isn't "a book with 800+ pages" while your book during the sprint didn't have that amount of pages. With Basic you don't have to do all months, if you only do one or two, you can still use these books as replacements for level prompts. This means you can get a total of 5 books during the sprints to use when the readathon returns.

The rewards add up, so with Experienced and Advanced you will still get the five books from Basic. If you complete the Experienced levels, you can pick any group you want to join and you will get that group (doesn't matter what the prompts were)! If you do Advanced, you will also get any skill you want (again, prompts don't matter)! However, different from with Basic, you have to fully complete Experienced and/or Advanced to get the group and/or skill of your choice.
